Chapter 1: Introduction

A. PROJECT OVERVIEW

The Office of the Deputy Mayor for Economic Development (ODMED), in coordination with the New York City Economic Development Corporation (NYCEDC) and the New York City Department of Housing Preservation and Development (HPD), proposes multiple discretionary actions to allow the implementation of an approximately 1.7 million-gross-square-foot mixed-use development on 10 City-owned sites. The 10 proposed development sites are located in Manhattan Community District 3 generally along Delancey and Essex Streets on the Lower East Side (see Figure 1). The project site also includes demapped sections of Broome and Suffolk Streets that would be mapped as City streets, and sections of Clinton and Delancey Streets that would be demapped.

The approximately 6.6-acre project site is primarily composed of the following City-owned parcels (see Figure 2)

- Site 1: Block 409, Lot 56;
- Site 2: Block 352, Lots 1 and 28;
- Site 3: Block 346, Lot 40;
- Site 4: Block 346, Lot 40;
- Site 5: Block 346, Lot 40;
- Site 6: Block 347, Lot 71;
- Site 7: Block 410, Lot 38; this site will not be redeveloped under the proposed actions;
- Site 8: Block 354, Lot 1;
- Site 9: Block 353, Lot 44; and
- Site 10: Block 354, Lot 12.

To facilitate the redevelopment project, a number of discretionary actions would be required. Adoption of proposed Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) actions would involve public review by a number of entities, which include, depending on the action, Manhattan Community Board 3, the Manhattan Borough President, the New York City Planning Commission, and the New York City Council. These actions include zoning map changes and zoning text amendments, zoning special permits, City map amendment, the disposition of City-owned property, and approval of Urban Development Action Area Project(s) (UDAAP). Mayoral and Borough Board approval of the business terms with the developer or developers to be selected pursuant to Requests for Proposals (RFPs) may also be required, as applicable. Should the discretionary actions subject to ULURP be approved, an RFP(s) soliciting proposals for development under the approvals would be issued. ODMED is serving as lead agency for environmental review.

Under a reasonable worst-case development scenario, it is assumed that the proposed actions would result in approximately 951,000 square feet of residential development (comprising approximately 900 dwelling units, of which up to half would be affordable units); up to approximately 632,300 square feet of commercial space; approximately 114,000 gsf of community facility or cultural uses; up to 500 parking spaces; and an approximately 10,000-square-foot public open space. The commercial space would include up to approximately 235,000 gsf of ground-floor retail, over 29,000 square feet of public market space, an approximately 97,500-square-foot hotel, a grocery store, and approximately 36,300 gsf of non-specific commercial uses. Pursuant to the proposed actions, the existing Essex Street Market, which is located on Site 9, would be relocated to a new, expanded public market facility.

In a comment letter dated August 16, 2011, the New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission identified the following portions of the project site as archaeologically significant: a portion of Site 2 (Block 352, Lot 28); Sites 3, 4, and 5 (Block 346, Lot 40), and Site 6 (Block 347, Lot 71). The remainder of the project site—including Site 1, a portion of Site 2 (Block 352, Lot 1), Sites 7 though 10, and the streetbeds included within the proposed project—were determined to have no archaeological significance. Therefore, the archaeological Area of Potential Effect (APE) is identified as only those properties with archaeological significance. This Phase 1A archaeological documentary study only assesses potential impacts to the APE.

B. RESEARCH GOALS AND METHODOLOGY

The goal of this archaeological documentary study is to determine the likelihood that potential archaeological resources have survived within the project site despite the destructive forces of time, including East River currents and tidal disturbance, utility installation, street construction, and basement excavation. This report has been designed to satisfy the requirements of the New York State Office of Parks, Recreation and Historic Preservation (OPRHP) and the New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission (LPC) and it follows the guidelines of the New York Archaeological Council (NYAC). The study documents the history of the proposed project site as well as its potential to yield archaeological resources dating to both precontact and historic periods. In addition, it also documents the current conditions of the project site and previous cultural resources investigations which have taken place in the vicinity of the APE.

As part of the background research for this Archaeological Documentary Study, various primary and secondary resources were analyzed including historic maps and atlases, historic photographs, newspaper articles, local histories, and building records. These published and unpublished resources were consulted at various repositories, including the Main Research Branch of the New York Public Library (including the Local History and Map Divisions), and the Municipal Archives and file searches were conducted at LPC, OPRHP, and the New York State Museum (NYSM). Other source material was reviewed at the Manhattan Topographic Bureau. On-line textual archives such as Google Books and the Internet Archive Open Access Texts were also accessed.

Several criteria were used to determine the archaeological sensitivity of the project site. As discussed in greater detail below, the project site was formerly developed with almost 100 historic lots, each of which had a different development history and therefore a different level of disturbance. Historic maps were analyzed to understand the development history for each lot with the most useful and detailed maps being the 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases, the 1885 Robinson-Pidgeon atlas, the 1891 Bromley atlas, and Sanborn maps dating to 1894, 1905, 1922, and 1951. Because of changing street addresses, lot numbers, and property configurations, each lot was assigned a two-digit unique property ID number for the purposes of this report. For example, the 14 historic lots within the portion of Site 2 that is analyzed within this Phase 1A Archaeological Documentary Study were given Property ID numbers 2-1 through 2-14. All historic research completed for these lots is organized by these Property ID numbers in this report as well as in Appendices A through E.

Nearly all of the lots experienced some disturbance during the 19th or 20th centuries as a result of excavation associated with the construction of a building with a basement. If a potentially unexcavated rear or side yard greater than 10 feet in width was identified on a lot during historic map research, that lot was identified as archaeologically sensitive. If a lot was entirely developed with a structure with a basement or if a narrow portion of the lot measuring less than 10 feet in width was left undeveloped, the lot was determined to not have archaeological significance and no additional analysis of that lot was completed.

For those lots that were identified as archaeologically sensitive, additional research into the lot's occupation history was carried out to identify the lot's residents between approximately 1820 (around the time many of these lots were first developed and when records were more readily available) and 1860, around the time when sewer and water networks would have been available to the residents of these properties. As part of this research, historic conveyance records dating to between the late 18th century and circa 1917 were examined for all properties within the project site to determine ownership patterns for the project site. Tax assessment ledgers dating to every 5 years between 1820 and 1850 were also examined to gain an understanding of the development of each lot before accurate maps were published beginning circa 1852. Historic directories dating to between circa 1820 and 1860 were examined to identify earliest occupants of only the lots that were identified as archaeologically sensitive. Finally, census records from the years 1850 and 1860 were also examined to gain a greater understanding of the individuals who resided within the archaeologically sensitive lots during the mid-19th century. Because the census taken in the years 1790 through 1840 only recorded the names of the heads of households and did not list individual residents or specific information beyond race and age grouping nor can they be easily correlated to specific lots, these documents were not examined as part of this study. This historic information is briefly summarized below and is included in its entirety in Appendices A through E.

C. PREVIOUS ARCHAEOLOGICAL WORK IN THE AREA

File searches at OPRHP and LPC indicate that many cultural resource investigations have been conducted within one mile of the project site, leading to the discovery of at least 22 precontact and historic period archaeological sites (see Table 1). Many of these sites, including the Schermerhorn Row Block, the Assay, Barclay's Bank, Whitehall Ferry Terminal, Telco Block, 175 Water Street, and 209 Water Street sites, have yielded historic landfill and landfill retaining devices along the East River waterfront.

An archaeological investigation was carried out in the rear yard of the Lower East Side Tenement Museum, located at 97 Orchard Street, one block to the west of the project site between Broome and Delancey Streets. The archaeological investigation in the rear yard of that lot, occupied by a 19th century tenement building similar to the structures that formerly lined Sites 2 through 6, uncovered historic privies as well as numerous artifacts (Howe 2000). The Tenement Museum is included within the Lower East Side Historic District, which is listed on the State and National Registers of Historic Places. Undisturbed rear yards associated with similar tenement structures in the area were identified as potential archaeological resources in the Lower East Side Historic District designation report (ibid).

In addition, the archaeological sensitivity of many historic lots in the neighborhood to the north and west of the project site was examined as part of the Lower East Side Rezoning project in 2008. As part of that project, almost 300 historic lots similar to those included within the Seward Park project site were examined (Bergoffen 2008). Similarly, a Phase 1A Archaeological Documentary Study was completed by AKRF in 2010 for the Pike and Allen Streets Center Median Reconstruction project. That Phase 1A identified several potentially undisturbed rear yard areas now within the streetbed of Pike and Allen Streets—three blocks west of the Seward Park project site—that were identified as archaeologically sensitive.

A. GEOLOGY AND TOPOGRAPHY

The island of Manhattan is found within a geographic bedrock region known as the Manhattan Prong of the New England (Upland) Physiographic Province. This region is composed of heavily metamorphic and sedimentary rock (including quartzite, dolomitic marble, marble, schist, and gneiss) that dates to the Cambrian and Ordovician ages. These hard rocks, which are oriented northeast-southwest, are interspersed with softer Inwood marble (New York State Office for Technology [NYSOFT], 2004).

There are a number of deposits which overlay the bedrock region, but nearly all of Manhattan is covered by anywhere from 3 to 164 feet of glacial till. There are also some lacustrine sediments covering a 1.5 square-mile area between the Manhattan and Williamsburg Bridges (NYSOFT 2004). These deposits were left behind by massive glaciers of up to 1,000 feet thick that retreated from the area towards the end of the Pleistocene. There were four major glaciations that affected Manhattan until roughly 12,000 years ago when the Wisconsin period—the last glacial period—came to an end. The glacial movements also brought about the creation of hundreds of sand hills, or kames, some of which were nearly one hundred feet tall. These hills were contrasted by many small streams, rivers, and lakes that were fed by the glacial runoff. The 1865 Viele map (Figure 3) depicts a large hill bordering the project site to the east.

Manhattan had a much narrower and more irregular shape in the days before systematic landfilling created the regimented shoreline of piers and promenades that we see today. The southern tip of Manhattan, known as Kapsee, was a rocky point jutting out into the harbor forming a small cove that was possibly used as a canoe landing by Native Americans. Throughout the historic period, the landscape was permanently altered not only by the creation of land, but also by filling in streams and leveling hills. Several historic maps include data regarding elevations at street corners. This data is presented in Table 2, below, which shows that minimal changes have occurred to the overall elevation of the project site streetbeds since the late 19th century.

NOTES: Some of the maps included above do not indicate the datum from which the elevation was measured while others present elevations "above high tide." Therefore, it is assumed that all measurements are with respect to sea level; however, consistent differences of several feet between elevation data on different maps (i.e. between the late 19th century maps and the early 20th century Sanborns) may reflect differences in datum rather than in elevation.

B. HYDROLOGY

As glacial runoff ceased, the small water courses that had been formed in the wake of retreating glaciers were transformed into swamps and marshlands. Marshes were present several blocks to the north, south, and east of the project site, although none were present within the site itself. The Collect Pond, approximately 4,000 feet southwest of the project site was the nearest major source of fresh water. Two smaller bodies of water known as Buttermilk Pond and Sweet Milk Pond were located closer to the project site, on either side of the Bowery between Grand and Hester Streets, approximately 1,500 to 2,000 feet from the project site.

C. SOILS

The New York City Soil Reconnaissance Survey published by the National Resource Conservation Service (2005) indicates that two soil complexes are present within the boundaries of the project site. In the landfilled areas in the southern portion of the project site corridor, soils are identified as part of the "Pavement and Buildings-wet substratum-Laguardia-Ebbets" complex. This soil type is characterized by 0 to 8 percent slopes in areas that have been filled with a mixture of natural soil materials and construction debris and up to 80 percent of which are covered with impermeable pavement and/or buildings. To the north of this area, soils are included within the "Pavement and Buildings-outwash substratum" complex. These highly urbanized areas typically have 0 to 5 percent slopes more than 80 percent of which is covered by impervious pavement or buildings (New York City Soil Survey Staff 2005).

D. PALEOENVIRONMENT

Due to the extended glacial period that left the Northeast blanketed in thick ice sheets for thousands of years, the area was not inhabited by humans until approximately 11,000 years ago. As temperatures increased, a variety of flora and fauna spread through the region. At this time, large open forests of spruce, fir, pine, and other tree species expanded across the Northeast, interspersed with open meadows and marshland. A wide variety of animal life could also be found, including large mammals such as mammoth, mastodon, caribou, musk ox, moose, as well as smaller mammals such as fox, beaver, hare, and many kinds of marine animals.

Climate changes continued to re-shape the environment of the Northeast as time progressed. As the climate grew increasingly warmer, jack pine, fir, spruce, and birch trees were replaced with hardwood forests of red and white pine, oak, and beech (Ritchie 1980). Furthermore, a decrease in glacial runoff resulted in the creation of small bodies of water such as lakes as well as, later on, low-lying marshes and swampy areas. By the time of the Early Archaic period, beginning approximately 10,000 BP, there was "considerable environmental diversity, with a mosaic of wetlands, oak stands, and a variety of other plant resources...[making it]...an attractive and hospitable quarter for both human and animal populations" (Cantwell and Wall 2001: 53). Warmer temperatures forced the herds of large mammals to travel north before eventually dying out. The new surroundings attracted other animals such as rabbit, turkey, waterfowl, bear, turtles, and white-tailed deer. The expanded water courses became home to a variety of marine life, including many varieties of fish, clams, oysters, scallops, seals, and porpoises, among others (ibid).

E. CURRENT CONDITIONS

SITE 2

Site 2 (Block 352, Lots 1 and 28) is located on the block bounded by Delancey, Norfolk, Broome, and Essex Streets. Lot 1—which is not part of the archaeological APE—contains a 1-story, 18,000 square-foot commercial building along Essex Street. This structure is one of the four former Essex Street Market buildings constructed in 1939-1940 to provide an indoor retail market for the pushcart vendors of the outdoor markets on the Lower East Side. Lot 28—which is included within the archaeological APE—is currently developed with an asphalt-paved surface parking lot. A small, 1-story wooden attendants' shack is present on the property near the entrance to the parking lot on Norfolk Street.

SITE 3

Site 3 (Block 346, Lot 40) is located on the block bounded by Delancey, Suffolk, Broome, and Norfolk Streets. The site is entirely occupied by an asphalt-paved surface parking lot that contains 170 public parking spaces. Two small, 1-story wooden attendants' shacks are present on the property near the entrance to the parking lot on Broome and Suffolk Streets and a 1-story shed is located at the northeastern corner of the property.

SITE 4

Site 4 (Block 346, Lot 40) is located on the block bounded by Delancey, Clinton, Broome, and Suffolk Streets. The site is entirely occupied by an asphalt-paved surface parking lot that contains 125 commercial parking spaces for neighborhood businesses. A small, 1-story attendants' shack is present at the northeastern corner of the property.

SITE 5

Site 5 (Block 346, Lot 40) is located on the block bounded by Broome, Clinton, Grand, and Suffolk Streets. Site 5 currently contains three buildings: a 5-story walk-up residential building at 400 Grand Street; a 3-story mostly vacant building at 402 Grand Street; and a former fire station at 185 Broome Street. The remainder of the lot is occupied by a 90-space asphalt-paved public parking lot. A 1-story attendants' shack is present near the entrance to the parking lot on Suffolk Street.

SITE 6

Site 6 (Block 347, Lot 71) is a 50-space public parking lot with frontages on Delancey, Clinton, and Broome Streets. Site 6 is entirely occupied by asphalt-paved surface parking uses.

Chapter 3: Precontact Period

A. PRECONTACT CONTEXT

Archaeologists have divided the time between the arrival of the first humans in northeastern North America and the arrival of Europeans more than 10,000 years later into three periods: Paleo-Indian (11,000-10,000 BP), Archaic (10,000-2,700 BP), and Woodland (2,700 BP–AD 1500). These divisions are based on certain changes in environmental conditions, technological advancements, and cultural adaptations, which are observable in the archaeological record.

As mentioned in Chapter 2, human populations did not inhabit the Northeast until the glaciers retreated some 11,000 years ago. These new occupants included Native American populations referred to by archaeologists as Paleo-Indians, the forbearers of the Delaware—also called the Lenape Indians—who would inhabit the land in later years. Archaeological evidence suggests that the Paleo-Indians were likely highly mobile hunters and gatherers who utilized a distinct style of lithic technology, typified by fluted points. They appear to have lived in small groups of fewer than 50 individuals (Dincauze 2000) and did not maintain permanent campsites. In addition, most of the Paleo-Indian sites that have been investigated were located near water sources. Because of the close proximity of Paleo-Indian sites to the coastline, few have been preserved in the New York City area.

The Archaic period has been sub-divided into three chronological segments, based on trends identified in the archaeological record which reflect not only the ecological transformations that occurred during this period, but the cultural changes as well. These have been termed the Early Archaic (10,000–8,000 BP), the Middle Archaic (8,000–6,000 BP) and the Late Archaic (6,000–2,700 BP) (Cantwell and Wall 2001). The Late Archaic is sometimes further divided to include the Terminal Archaic period (3,000-2,700 BP). The abundance of food resources which arose during this period allowed the Archaic Native Americans to occupy individual sites on a permanent or semi-permanent basis, unlike their nomadic Paleo-Indian predecessors. Fishing technology was developed during the Middle Archaic in response to an increasing dependence on the area's marine resources. Tools continued to be crafted in part from foreign lithic materials, indicating that there was consistent trade among Native American groups from various regions in North America throughout the Archaic period. Few Early and Middle Archaic archaeological sites have been identified in New York City, although numerous Late Archaic sites have been identified in the area.

The Woodland period represents a cultural revolution of sorts in the Northeast. During this time, Native Americans began to alter their way of life, focusing on a settled, agricultural lifestyle rather than one of nomadic hunting and gathering. Social rituals become visible in the archaeological record at this time. Composite tools, bows and arrows, domesticated dogs, and elaborately decorated pottery were introduced to Native American culture at this time and burials grew increasingly complex. Woodland-era sites across North America indicate that there was an overall shift toward full-time agriculture and permanently settled villages. Archaic sites in New York City, however, suggest that the Native Americans there continued to hunt and forage on a part-time basis. This was most likely due to the incredibly diverse environmental niches that could be found across the region throughout the Woodland period (Cantwell and Wall 2001, Grumet 1995).

The Woodland period ended with the arrival of the first Europeans in the early 1500s. The Native Americans lived in villages consisting of multiple longhouses and practiced some farming, but subsisted mostly on food resources obtained by hunting, gathering, and fishing (Grumet 1995). With the introduction of European culture into the indigenous society, the way of life once maintained by the Native Americans was thoroughly and rapidly altered. European guns, glass beads, copper kettles, and alcohol soon became incorporated into the Native American economy, while European diseases brought about the demise of huge portions of the population.

Native Americans at first maintained the village sites they had established near water sources and the two groups co-existed. As trade with European settlers intensified, they became increasingly sedentary and as the European population grew and required more land, the relationship between the two groups soured. Fierce wars broke out between the Dutch and the Indians. Being armed with far more guns than the natives, the Dutch quickly forced the Indians out of the region. According to Grumet (1981), most of the Native Americans left lower Manhattan soon after the island was famously sold to the Dutch in 1626 in exchange for $24 worth of trade goods. Those who remained in the area (and who managed to survive the violent conflicts with the Dutch that occurred throughout the mid-17th century and the European diseases that ran rampant throughout the native population) had retreated from lower Manhattan before the end of the 18th century (Cantwell and Wall 2001).

B. PREVIOUSLY IDENTIFIED NATIVE AMERICAN ARCHAEOLOGICAL SITES

A review of the files at the New York State Office of Parks, Recreation, and Historic Preservation (OPRHP), the New York State Museum (NYSM), the New York City Landmarks Preservation Commission (LPC), and cultural resource surveys of projects in the immediate vicinity indicated that there were at least two Native American archaeological sites, both villages, near the project site (see Table 3). Both sites are located less than one mile from the project site.

Previously Identified Native American Archaeological Sites

Site Name	Site #	Approximate Distance from APE	Time Period	Site Type	References
Shell Point/ Werpoes	NYSM : 4059	.5 miles (2,640 feet)	Precontact	Native American village and shell middens	Parker (1922) Bolton (1922)
Nechtanc	NYSM : 4060	.38 miles (2,000 feet)	Precontact, Contact	Native American village used as a retreat during 17th century wars with the Dutch	Parker (1922) Bolton (1922)
Shepmoes		1 mile (5,280 feet)	Precontact	Small Native American station or plantation	Bolton (1922)

One village, recorded as NYSM site #4059 was located north of City Hall Park, the former location of the Collect Pond, known to the Native Americans as the Klock (Bolton 1975) and to the Dutch as "Kolch," meaning small pond or pit-hole. It has also been referred to as Warpoes—possibly derived from the word Wapu, meaning "a hare"—or "Shell Point," a name derived from the many shell middens which characterized the site during the Contact Period (ibid).

Another site, NYSM site #4060, was located at present-day Corlear's Hook. This site is most commonly referred to as Nechtanc, meaning "sandy place" (Grumet 1981), but is also known as Rechtauck or Naghtogack (Bolton 1975). This village was used as a refuge by Lower Hudson River Delaware Indians from other parts of the New York City area during the brutal wars with the Dutch which took place in the early 1640s. It was not a safe haven for them, however, and in February, 1643, the Dutch staged a nighttime attack on several Native American villages, including Nechtanc, at which time many Native Americans were killed in their sleep (Grumet 1981).

Other Native American place names in the area included the aforementioned Kapsee, the rocky ledge at the southern end of the island between Whitehall Street and Battery Place; Catemiuts, a fort and hill located near the modern-day intersection of Pearl Street and Park Row, and Ashibic, a rocky cliff north of today's Beekman Street that abutted a marshy tract (Grumet 1981).

A series of Native American trails connected these locations with the villages discussed above as well as other Native American habitation sites further north. A major Native American thruway—known as Wickquasgeck —ran along the southern line of modern Broadway before splitting into two roads; one angling to the northeast and continuing northward along the approximate path of today's Bowery Road, and the other continuing east towards Nechtanc. West of the fork in the trail, two smaller trails extended from the main road; one traveling northward towards Warpoes and the other heading east and then south towards the East River shore in the vicinity of modern East Broadway, crossing through the project site (Grumet 1981, Bolton 1934, Homberger 1994). The latter appears on Bolton's 1922 map of Native American trails to follow the path of the southern outlet of the Collect Pond (in the vicinity of Catherine and James' Slips). Therefore, it is likely that Native Americans used these trails to access the varied resources provided by the wetlands along the East River Shoreline to the south of the project site.

Chapter 4: The Historic Period

A. THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE PROJECT SITE

The developed portion of the Dutch colony of New Amsterdam remained confined to the southern tip of Manhattan and there was minimal development of roads or structures in the vicinity of the project sites during that time. Throughout the first half of the 17th century, the Dutch West India Company (WIC) created several large farms known as bouweries that they intended to grant to individual settlers. The project site was situated within portions of three such farms: Bouweries 4 and 5 and the farm of Claes van Elslandt.

Portions of Sites 2, 3, and 4 are located on land that was formerly part of Bouwery No. 4, an irregularly shaped 91-acre parcel of land. This farm was also known as the "Pannebacker's bouwery" and it received its nickname from an unknown tile or brick maker who must have lived on the property in the 17th century (Stokes 1968). Bouwery No. 5 was located to the south of Bouwery No. 4, and portions of Sites 3, 4, and 6 and all of Site 5 were located within its boundaries. In 1630, the farm was leased from Wolphert Gerritson by Claes Cornelissen Swits, who was killed in a skirmish with Native Americans in 1641. In 1645, the farm was re-granted to Swits' son, Cornelis Claesson Swits, who was also killed by Native Americans. A portion of Site 6 was included within a farm grant made from Dutch Director General William Kieft to Claes van Elslandt in 1647. Van Elslandt later conveyed the land to Jan Cornelissen, who later transferred it to Wolphert Webbers. All three parcels were conveyed to Cornelis Steenwyck and Olof Stevens Van Cortlandt during the second half of the 17th century. These properties were then incorporated into the large farm of James DeLancey in the early 18th century (Stokes 1968).

James DeLancey began purchasing land in the area north of Division Street, now East Broadway, in the early 18th century and in transactions in 1741 and 1765 he and his heirs accumulated the property that would become a large estate covering much of what is now the Lower East Side neighborhood of Manhattan and including Sites 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 in their entirety (City Register n.d.). The portions of the estate on either side of Clinton Street were known as the East and West Delancey Farms (Homberger 2004). James DeLancey, Sr. died in 1760, and his property was inherited by his son James DeLancey, Jr. By that time, the family had acquired a tremendous amount of property in the area and had gained a reputation for being loyal to the British crown. James DeLancey, Jr. visited England in the spring of 1775 and because of the impending American rebellion, neither he nor his family ever returned to America. As a result of the Act of Confiscation of 1779, the DeLancey estate was divided and sold by Isaac Stoutenburgh and Philip Van Cortlandt, who were Commissioners in Forfeiture (Stokes 1968). After the sale of the land, it was heavily and quickly developed.

The Grim map, drawn in 1813 but depicting the city as it appeared in the early 1740s, does not indicate the presence of any structures near the project site (although the entire project site may not be depicted on the map), but rather suggests that the area was occupied by orchards or farms; however the map's accuracy is questionable. The maps published by Montresor in 1766 and 1775 depict several country lanes in the vicinity of the project site. One of these appears to have been a precursor to modern East Broadway, identified as "Love lane," while another ran in the vicinity of modern Grand Street and was referred to as the "Road to Crown Point," and a third was in the vicinity of Delancey Street which ran along the southern side of James DeLancey's home. The Montresor maps depict a series of small plots of farmland in the approximate location of the project site and the only nearby estates were the DeLancey

Farm to the northwest of the project site and the Jones Estate, on what would later be known as Jones Hill, the large elevated hummock to the east of the project site at the end of the Road to Crown Point. The Ratzer/Ratzen maps published in 1776 and depicting the city circa 1766-1767 are the first to depict the laying out of the modern street grid within the southern portion of the DeLancey farm, with a large area known as "Delancey's Square" or "the Great Square" reserved in the area bounded by Broome, Canal (then called Pump), Eldridge (then called Third) and Essex Streets. However, it is not clear if these streets were all constructed by that time or if they were simply proposed as the 1782 British Headquarters map and the 1782 Hills map only depict streets in the vicinity of modern Bayard, Canal, and Hester Streets as well as Eldridge, Orchard, and Essex. Delancey's Square is depicted on neither map published in 1782. The Ratzer map does suggest that a small portion of Site 6 may have been the location of a garden or orchard associated with the former Jones home. A small structure may have been located within the southwest corner of that garden, however different versions of the same map do not depict any structures in that area.

B. RISING TENSIONS DURING THE REVOLUTION

As the 18th century drew to a close, conflicts between the American colonists and the British government grew fierce. After the beginning of the Revolutionary War in 1776, the British, who had taken control of New York City that same year, began to increase fortifications along the East River, one of their most valuable military assets due to its location. Fortifications were especially heavy on the Lower East Side where the tall hills afforded views of the entire harbor and where the British could look out for approaching American ships or troops. The large elevated area to the east of the project site, known as Jones' Hill or Mount Pitt, was the location of an American fort sometimes referred to as the "Crown Point Battery" which was later occupied by the British and strengthened with "fraises and pickets" (New York State Division of Military and Naval Affairs [NYSDMNA] 2006). During the war, several smaller batteries were constructed around the fort as well (ibid). Many Hessians, German mercenaries who fought on the side of the British, were camped in this area during the war (Stokes 1968).

Both the 1782 British Headquarters map and the 1782 Hills maps also depict many fortifications within and in the vicinity of the project site. Several batteries were constructed on the hills overlooking the waterfront in the vicinity of the project site. A substantial fortification wall with several firing platforms was constructed in the vicinity of modern Grand Street that connected to the Jones Hill fort. This wall was not situated within the project site, but was located immediately to the south and east.

As mentioned previously, James DeLancey was a loyalist during the war and as a result, his land was confiscated after the American victory. The East Farm was largely sold to prominent families while the West Farm was mostly sold to existing tenants (Homberger 1994). The Commissioners of Forfeiture sold the blocks making up the project site between 1785 and 1795. Block 346 (Site 5) was sold in 1785 to Morgan Lewis, Block 352 (Sites 2 and 3), formerly part of the West Farm, was sold in 1795 to Nicholas J. Gouverneur, and Block 347 (Sites 4 and 6), formerly part of the East Farm, was sold in 1795 to several individuals including Joshua Ketcham, John R. Meyer, and John Quackenbos. Gouverneur, Lewis, and Quackenbos were all members of prominent New York families and all three men purchased numerous blocks within the former DeLancey estate at this time (ibid).

POST-REVOLUTIONARY GROWTH

Because of the military presence in the area during the Revolutionary War, the Lower East Side was not heavily developed until after the war ended and the British evacuated the city in 1783. The end of the war resulted in the division of large farms, such as Delancey's, which resulted in the rapid urbanization of the Lower East Side. The division of these large farms also resulted in an increase in street development, as evident on the 1789 McComb map of Manhattan. This map shows that a neat street grid had been constructed through a portion of the former Delancey farm as far north as Broome Street and as far east as Norfolk Street, however, this map does not appear to accurately depict the construction of or location of any streets in this area. The 1797 Taylor-Roberts plan (Figure 4) more accurately depicts the laying out of the streets in the vicinity of the project site. That map depicts three structures on Site 4, one along the southern side of the block along Broome Street (called Bullock Street until 1806) and two along Clinton Street (then called Arundel Street). A fourth structure is depicted on Site 6 near the northeast corner of Broome and Clinton Streets. The map does not depict any other structures within the project site. Road construction, grading, and maintenance were also occurring at the end of the 18th century and into the beginning of the 19th. In 1803, the Common Council ordered all the proposed streets running through the former Delancey farm to be opened, and most of the streets bordering the project site were constructed in the years that followed (Minutes of the Common Council [MCC] 1917 III: 199). The development of the area was preceded by the leveling of the large hills that formerly lined the Lower East Side and the filling in of low-lying areas.

C. 19TH CENTURY SITE HISTORY

By the beginning of the 19th century, new structures had been built across much of the former DeLancey farm. However, maps published by Bonar in 1804 and Longworth in 1808 suggest that the streets in the vicinity of the project site had not yet been constructed and that only minimal development within the southern portions of Sites 2 and 3 had been developed by that time. Both maps also suggest that the former Jones farmhouse may have been partially situated within Site 5, although earlier maps depict this home to the southeast of the project site.

Maps dating to the 1820s and 1830s (i.e. the 1824 Hooker, 1828 Morin, 1832 Burr, and 1836 Colton maps) depict development in the vicinity of the project site although none depict individual building footprints with the exception of public or institutional structures (i.e. churches and markets) or homes on large estates. The 1836 Colton and 1838 Burr maps depicts a structure at the northeast corner of Norfolk and Broome Streets (within Site 3) which the 1840 Burr map identifies as a Baptist Church. Historic tax assessments indicate that the church stood on the lots formerly located at the northeast corner of Broome and Norfolk Streets (see properties 3-6, 3-7, 3-8, and 3-9, discussed below). The Norfolk Street Baptist Church was located on this site until the late 1840s, when they sold the land

Several maps also depict another structure along the northern side of Grand Street between Suffolk and Clinton Streets (within Site 5), although this structure is not identified or consistently depicted on early maps, although it may represent the Mechanics and Traders Bank seen in that location on later maps or a school house that was identified on the same site in a tax assessment from 1820 (see property 5-14, discussed below). No other important structures are identified within the project site on these early maps. These maps also identify the city's early municipal boundaries; the portion of the project site west of Norfolk Street (Site 2) was situated within the Tenth Ward while the other Sites (Sites 3 through 6) were included within the Thirteenth Ward.

According to historic tax assessment ledgers, most of the lots within the project site were developed with houses or shops before 1820. Sites 2 and 3 experienced slightly later development, with most of the lots being developed for the first time between 1820 and 1830. While the tax assessments give some information about the early development of these lots, the ledgers are handwritten and often contain erroneous or inconsistent information and therefore historic maps are more reliable. The first map to clearly depict the footprints of the buildings that were situated within and adjacent to the project site is the 1852 Dripps map. The map shows that every lot within the project site was occupied by one or more structures and nearly all had an open rear or center yard. Several industrial and commercial enterprises were in the vicinity of the project site as well, including the Union Iron Factory on Broome Street between Norfolk and Suffolk Streets (Site 3). Public Primary Schools 42 and 43 were also present in a rear building along Clinton Street between Broome and Grande Streets (Site 5). The school was later replaced with a large building that fronted on Broome Street in the same general area and was known as Public School 20.

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps (see Figure 5) provide more information on the structures that were located within the project site at that time. Most were of wood frame construction, although many brick buildings were also present. Many of the lots within the project site were developed with both front and rear buildings separated by an open center yard. Many hazardous commercial buildings were present as well, which were divided by Perris into three classes based on the types of hazards posed by each. First class stores included any of the following: bakers, boat builders, brewers, brush manufactories, comb makers, copper smiths with forges, dyers, floor cloth manufactories, hat manufactories, malt houses, oil manufactories, oil cloth manufactories, private stables, tobacco manufactories, type and stereotype founders, and wheelwrights. Second class structures housed book binders, brass founders, coach makers, cotton presses and mills, iron founders, livery stables, paper mills, and book and job printers. Third class buildings included blind and sash makers, bleaching works, cabinet makers' work shops, carpenter's shops, candle makers, chair maker's work shops, distillers, gas manufactories, flour mills, ink makers (printer's ink), India rubber or gutta percha manufacturers, lamp black and ivory black manufacturers, looking glass and picture frame makers, musical instrument makers, omnibus stables, organ workers, piano forte makers, rectifiers of liquors by fire heat, soap makers, tallow melters or chandlers, or wool mills.

Although by that time water and sewer lines would have been accessible in the streetbed, many of the buildings in the area continued to have outbuildings which were likely privies. It was noted that wells in the vicinity of the project site proved somewhat useless as the water that filled them was salty and brackish as a result of the site's proximity to the East River and the marshes that formerly lined the waterfront (Acheson 1864).

NEIGHBORHOOD CHANGES IN THE MID-19TH CENTURY

During the second half of the 19th century, the Lower East Side quickly became overwhelmed by overcrowded slums, filth, and disease, and it was considered by many to be one of the worst neighborhoods in New York City. Sanitary inspection reports of the Tenth and Thirteenth Wards describe the squalid conditions of the neighborhood in 1864. In the Tenth Ward, living conditions were better than others in the area and sanitation reports from that area indicate that while "the moral and physical tone of the neighborhood was fearful" during the early 19th century, after the Collect Pond was filled in, life improved for the Ward's residents (Kennedy 1864: 92). The 1864 sanitation investigation of the Tenth Ward states that the only major health "nuisance" for the ward was caused by odors emanating from garbage that collected in the streets. Otherwise, the district was reported as having excellent drainage, ventilation, clean, large tenant houses, and a healthy population, many of whom were of German descent (ibid).

The Thirteenth Ward was not as pleasant, mostly as a result of the level terrain which prevented the adequate drainage of stormwater and other runoff (Acheson 1864). As a result of the poor drainage and poor sanitation practices at the time, the streets in the ward were "filthy and unwholesome" and were filled with "the refuse of the bedrooms of those sick with typhoid and scarlet fevers and small pox" (ibid: 111). The Thirteenth Ward had fewer sewers than the Tenth Ward and few buildings were connected to them and privies were not well maintained (ibid). The residents of this portion of the city were described as a "carless and ignorant class of occupants," most of whom were Irish or German and employed as laborers, mechanics, factory workers, and tradesmen (ibid: 111-112).

THE LATE 19TH CENTURY

As the 19th century ended, the Lower East Side featured a demographic shift, as lower-class immigrants flooded the area and lived in the overcrowded tenements that lined the neighborhood's streets. At the beginning of the mid 19th century, the area was home to many Irish immigrants although the neighborhood quickly became a German enclave throughout the mid-1800s, although during the last few decades of the 19th century, it became populated mostly by Jewish immigrants from Eastern Europe (Howe 2000). During the surge of immigration in the mid-19th century, many of the old 2-story wood frame rowhouses that had lined the streets of the Lower East Side were replaced with 4 to 5-story brick tenements designed to house large numbers of people, most of whom were poor immigrants (ibid).

Overcrowded tenements were a major factor in the deterioration of living conditions during the late 19th century. Late 19th century maps including the 1879 Bromley, 1885 Robinson-Pidgeon, and 1891 Bromley atlases, suggest that nearly all of the lots within the project site were occupied by brick structures, many of which still had open rear yards, although a few wood frame structures remained and many new larger structures had been built occupying entire lots, including Apollo Hall, a saloon and dining room on Clinton Street within Site 6 and Grand Irving Hall, a concert hall, on Broome Street within Site 2.

D. 20TH CENTURY SITE HISTORY

In the first decades of the 20th century, the neighborhood surrounding the project site continued to decline although it was impacted by many large infrastructure improvements as a result of the consolidation of the boroughs of New York City in 1898. The construction of the Williamsburg Bridge between 1896 and 1903 resulted in drastic changes to the neighborhood (Stokes 1968). To relieve traffic congestion at the approach to the bridge, Delancey Street was widened to the south, resulting in the elimination of more than 100 historic lots and the displacement of approximately 20,000 residents (New York Tribune 1904). A branch of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company's Centre Street loop subway line (now the JMZ subway line) was constructed below Delancey Street by 1915 to connect to the Williamsburg Bridge, constructed in 1903 (Walker 1918).

The neighborhood remained a Jewish enclave during this time. Many synagogues were present both within the project site and across the Lower East Side, however, synagogues were often established in converted tenement apartments rather than in formal structures built for religious purposes (Bergoffen 2008). Many synagogues at that time contained tiled ritual baths known as mikvahs located in their basements. Several mikvahs have been investigated during archaeological investigations in the area, including one at 5 Allen Street, to the west of the project site (ibid). The 1905 Sanborn map (see Figure 6) identifies three Synagogues within Site 3, all of which were located in structures originally constructed for residential use at 80 Norfolk, 71 Suffolk, and 196 Broome Streets). None of these were identified on the 1922 Sanborn map (see Figure 7), although two additional structures were identified as synagogues on the 1951 Sanborn map (see Figure 8) at 72 and 74 Norfolk Street.

In 1955, the area bounded by Essex Street on the west, Grand Street on the north, and East Broadway on the south was designated as the Seward Park Urban Renewal Area (SPURA). As part of that program, the buildings within the area were razed, displacing thousands of families. In 1957, the federal government provided funding for the Seward Park Co-ops which were completed to the south of the project site in 1962. Established in 1965, the Seward Park Extension URA (SPEURA), which is directly north of the original SPURA, is bordered by Essex Street, Grand Street, Bialystoker Place, and Delancey Street. In 1967, 14 blocks of tenements in the SPEURA—including Sites 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6—were demolished and the land was cleared for new housing and commercial buildings. The lots have been paved parking lots since that time despite previous attempts to redevelop these sites.

E. SUBSURFACE INFRASTRUCTURE IN THE VICINITY OF THE PROJECT SITE

Despite its status as one of America's largest and most industrial cities, New York did not have a reliable network of water and sewer lines until the mid-19th century. Instead, water and waste management in domestic lots was handled by the use of shaft features such as privies, cisterns, and wells. Public wells were constructed by the city in publicly accessible areas along city streets and early gutters and drains carried waste directly into the East River.

As sewer and water lines were not yet consistently available, any buildings constructed on the project site in the late 18th or early 19th century would have relied on shaft features such as cisterns, privies, and wells for the purposes of sanitation and water gathering. Early New Yorkers relied on public wells in the streets for water for drinking and cooking. The first water pipes were installed in the early 19th century by the Manhattan Water Company, the precursor to the Chase Manhattan Bank. These wooden pipes carried water from local sources (i.e. the Collect Pond) to other areas in downtown Manhattan. Examples of these early pipes were discovered in 1889 under Peck Slip, southwest of Pike Slip, during construction for a sewer line. The cedar logs discovered at that time measured eight feet in length and twelve inches in diameter, with two-inch holes bored in the center (New York Times 1889).

By 1829, the city had constructed a reservoir near the intersection of modern 13th Street and the Bowery. An iron pipe ran between the reservoir and Catherine Street, bringing water to the Lower East Side (Burrows and Wallace 1999). The first evidence of water lines in the area is presented on the 1834 Fireman's Guide, which depicts the presence of fire hydrants (and therefore water lines) along Delancey and Essex Streets in the vicinity of the project site.

Despite its initial success, the wooden pipe water supply system could not be sustained for very long because local water sources became too polluted. It was not until 1842 that the Croton Aqueduct system brought significant amounts of clean water into Manhattan. A map of the complex distribution system associated with the Croton waterworks published by Endicott in 1842 depicts water lines and stop cocks running through in all of the streetbeds surrounding the project site. Although water lines were present by 1842, sewers were not installed in the area until the 1850s and 1860s, after the existing street and storm sewers were overwhelmed by the increase in wastewater brought on by the installation of the Croton Aqueduct (Goldman 1997).

Even after the installation of sewers, not all buildings were connected immediately. The Tenth and Thirteenth Wards, in which the project site is situated, were known for their lack of adequate sewerage, however, and while there had been the installation of "trunk lines on Stanton, Rivington, Delancey, Broome, and Grand Streets...branch lines were not constructed on the cross streets of these wards, which were dominated by 'factories, warehouses, and frame houses typical of this nascent German community" (Goldman 1997: 73). Even when sewer lines were available in certain areas, the connection fee of $10.00 "reinforced the already inequitable pattern established by the protocol of sewer construction...the city's poorest could not carry these charges, and absentee property owners did not care to" (ibid). Therefore, the use of privies would have continued on domestic lots until sewer lines were constructed and perhaps even well after. However, in 1854 the city ordered that all buildings in areas with access to sewers must be connected to them and also that all privies, etc. had to be connected as well, although this was not regularly enforced (ibid).

The 1865 Viele map depicts early sewers within Delancey, Broome, Grand, and Norfolk Streets. A sewer map prepared by the Department of Public Works in 1942 (updated through 1958) identifies the dates that some sewers in the vicinity of the project site were installed. The map indicates that a 4-foot by 2-foot 8-inch sewer was installed within Grand Street between Suffolk and Ridge Streets in 1852. Another sewer line of the same size was installed in Broome Street, although its date of installation is not given on the map, although it was likely installed around the same time as the sewer in Grand Street. Sewer connections of the same size extended south from the Broome Street line down Essex, Norfolk, and Clinton Streets which were installed between 1856 and approximately 1868. Smaller, 12-inch sewer connections were installed in Suffolk Street between Grand and Broome Streets in 1861. Between Broome and Delancey Streets, a 3.5-foot by 2-foot sewer was installed in Essex Street in 1891 and smaller 15-inch connections were installed in Norfolk, Suffolk, and Clinton Streets in 1906, although these may have replaced earlier lines such as the Norfolk Street sewer seen in the 1865 Viele map.

After the mid-19th century, as clean water was pumped in and waste carried away, the city's sanitation efforts were greatly improved. The 1879 Bromley atlas depicts numerous fire hydrants lining the streetbeds surrounding the project site, confirming the presence of water lines in the area. The 1891 version of the Bromley Atlas is the first to clearly show the utility lines that ran through the area and it depicts water and sewer lines running through all of the streetbeds surrounding the project site. Subsequent historic maps and atlases depict additional water lines in the streetbeds.

F. HISTORIC LOTS WITHIN SITE 2

The portion of Site 2 included within this Phase 1A Archaeological Documentary Study consists of modern Block 352, Lot 28 and is bounded by Delancey Street to the north, Broome Street to the south, Norfolk Street to the east, and an existing structure to the west. This lot is made up of 14 historic properties as outlined in Table 4, below. Of these, 8 have been identified as archaeologically sensitive while the others have been determined to have been disturbed by historic development and basement excavation (see Appendix A). Tax assessment records indicate that the lots along the Broome Street side of Site 2 were developed first and that all were developed with homes or shops before 1820. The lots along Norfolk Street appear to have been developed for residential use between 1820 and 1825. Few historic directory entries dating to the early 1820s could be located to identify the earliest residents of the site.

Of these lots, many, though not all were at times occupied by their owners, although all were multi-family homes. Almost all of the lots had both front and rear structures and as a result a large number of unrelated residents likely occupied each lot at any given time. The population of each lot increased over the years and by the mid- to late-19th century, each lot was occupied by a large number of people, typical of the over-crowded Lower East Side at the time. Throughout the first half of the 19th century, the residents of this site were largely working class, with the number of unskilled workers among the residents increasing as the century continued. Residential turnover was high, with almost all of the non-owner tenants residing on the site for a period of only a few years. Finally, nearly all of the residents were Caucasian, mostly of German descent, however, in the 1850s the property at 73 Norfolk Street (Property 2-7) was the home of several individuals of African descent.

A brief summary of each lot is provided below and additional data on the lots' occupants (including conveyance records, historic directory entries, census records, and tax assessment data) is included as. Appendix A.

2-1: 85 NORFOLK STREET

This property, which was known as 75 Norfolk Street until the street was renumbered in 1889, was first developed circa 1826. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict wood frame front and rear buildings on the lot with a shared open center courtyard containing an outbuilding, possibly an outhouse used by the residents of the front and rear dwellings. By the late-19th century the front building had been replaced with a brick structure. As seen on the 1905 Sanborn atlas, the lot was again redeveloped with a 6-story building with a basement. This structure was lowered to 2-stories by 1951. While the 1905 Sanborn map indicates that the lot's rear yard was developed with a 1-story rear addition, the map does not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

2-2: 83 NORFOLK STREET

This property, which was known as 73 Norfolk Street until the street was renumbered in 1889, was first developed between 1820 and 1825. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict a wood frame front dwelling with an attached rear outbuilding and a brick rear dwelling. By the late-19th century the front building had been replaced with a larger brick structure with an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn atlas identifies this a 5-story building with a basement and depicts a small 1-story outbuilding in the otherwise undeveloped rear yard. The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that this building was altered and only stood 2-stories by the mid-20th century and that a larger rear addition covered a portion of the rear yard. The map does not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

2-3: 81 NORFOLK STREET

This property, which was known as 71 Norfolk Street until the street was renumbered in 1889, was first developed between 1820 and 1825. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict wood frame front and rear dwellings on the lot with an open central yard. By the late-19th century the front building had been replaced with a larger brick structure with an open rear yard although the wood frame rear dwelling remained. The 1905 Sanborn atlas continues to depict both buildings and identifies the front structure as a 5-story building with a basement (in use as a bakery) and the rear structure as a 3-story dwelling with basement. A 1-story outbuilding in the center yard is also depicted on that map. The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that the rear dwelling was torn down by that time. These maps do not indicate that the center yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the center of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

2-4: 79 NORFOLK STREET

This property, which was known as 69 Norfolk Street until the street was renumbered in 1889, was first developed between 1820 and 1825. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict a wood frame front dwelling and a brick rear dwelling on the lot with a central yard containing an outbuilding. By the late-19th century the front building had been replaced with a larger brick structure and a brick shed or stable was constructed in a portion of the center yard. The 1905 Sanborn atlas indicates that the site was redeveloped with a 6-story building with a basement and a small open rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

2-5: 77 NORFOLK STREET

This property, which was known as 67 Norfolk Street until the street was renumbered in 1889, was first developed between 1820 and 1825. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict wood frame front and rear dwellings with a shared central yard containing an outbuilding. By the late-19th century the front building had been replaced with a larger brick structure with an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn atlas indicates that the site was redeveloped with a 5-story building with a basement and a small open rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

2-6: 75 NORFOLK STREET

This property, which was known as 65 Norfolk Street until the street was renumbered in 1889, was first developed between 1820 and 1825. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict wood frame front and rear dwellings with a shared central yard containing two outbuildings. By the late-19th century both the front and rear buildings were depicted as being made of brick. The 1905 Sanborn depicts the front structure as a 5-story building and the rear structure as a 4-story dwelling; neither building is depicted as having a basement. Maps do not indicate that any portion of this lot was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

2-7: 73 NORFOLK STREET

This property, which was known as 63 Norfolk Street until the street was renumbered in 1889, was first developed between 1825 and 1830. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict a double brick front dwelling with attached rear outbuildings on the lot with a wood rear dwelling and an open center yard. The 1905 Sanborn indicates that the lot was redeveloped with a 6-story building with a basement and an open rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

2-8 THROUGH 2-12: 2141/2 THROUGH 2201/2 BROOME STREET

These five historic lots were developed and occupied in the early 19th century. However, by 1905 these lots were combined and developed with the Grand Irving Hall, a concert hall and auditorium that was constructed with a basement and which covered the entire footprint of all five lots. Therefore, these properties are not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

2-13: 214 BROOME STREET

This property was first developed and occupied before 1820. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict a small wood frame dwelling with an open rear yard on the lot. By 1905, the lot was redeveloped with a 5-story building with a basement and an open rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the northern end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

2-14: 73 NORFOLK STREET

This historic lot was developed and occupied in the early 19th century. However, by 1905 it was developed with a 5-story structure with a basement that covered almost all of the lot's footprint with the exception of a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) area at the lot's northern end. Therefore, this property is not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

G. HISTORIC LOTS WITHIN SITE 3

Site 3 consists of modern Block 346, Lot 40 (part) and is bounded by Delancey Street to the north, Norfolk Street to the west, Broome Street to the south, and Suffolk Street to the east. This lot is made up of 19 historic properties as outlined in Table 5, below. Of these, 8 have been identified as archaeologically sensitive while the others have been determined to have been disturbed by historic development and basement excavation (see Appendix B). Tax assessment records indicate that most of the lots within Site 3 were first developed with structures between 1820 and 1825 although some were developed before 1820.

Of these lots, several, though not all, were at times occupied by their owners, although all were multifamily homes. Almost all of the lots had both front and rear structures and as a result a large number of unrelated residents likely occupied each lot at any given time. The population of each lot increased over the years and by the mid- to late-19th century, each lot was occupied by a large number of people, typical of the over-crowded Lower East Side at the time. Throughout the first half of the 19th century, the residents of this site were largely working class, with the number of unskilled workers among the residents increasing as the century continued. Residential turnover was high, with almost all of the non-owner tenants residing on the site for a period of only a few years. Finally, nearly all of the residents were Caucasian, mostly of German descent, however, in the 1840s the property at 75 Suffolk Street (Property 3-19) was the home of several individuals of African descent.

A brief summary of each lot is provided below and additional data on the lots' occupants (including conveyance records, historic directory entries, census records, and tax assessment data) is included as. Appendix B.

3-1: 82 NORFOLK STREET

The 1922 Sanborn map shows that this property was entirely redeveloped with a 1- to 6-story structure with a basement. It is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

3-2: 80 NORFOLK STREET

The 1951 Sanborn map shows that this property was redeveloped with a 3-story structure with a basement which covered all but a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) portion of the rear yard. It is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

3-3: 78 NORFOLK STREET

This property was first developed and occupied between 1825 and 1830. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that the lot was developed with a small wood frame front dwelling and a brick rear dwelling separated by an open center yard. By 1885, maps show that the rear yard was redeveloped with an L-shaped brick shed or stable. The 1905 Sanborn map shows that the lot was redeveloped with a 5-story building with a basement and an open rear yard. The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that the rear yard was developed with a 1-story addition without a basement. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

3-4: 76 NORFOLK STREET

This property was first developed and occupied between 1825 and 1830. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that the lot was developed with a small wood frame front dwelling and a brick rear dwelling separated by an open center yard. The 1905 Sanborn map shows that the lot was redeveloped with a 5-story building with a basement and an open rear yard. The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that the rear yard was developed with a 1-story addition without a basement. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

&lt;sup>1</sup> The 1820 tax assessment suggests that a house may have ben present on the site at that time, but it appears to be an error as the value of the property ($600) is more consistent with an empty lot.

3-5: 74 NORFOLK STREET

As seen on the 1905 Sanborn map, this half-sized lot was fully developed with a building with a basement. This lot is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

3-6 TO 3-9: 70-72 NORFOLK STREET/208, 2081/2, AND 210 BROOME STREET

As mentioned above in Section C, these four lots were originally combined and were occupied by a church. The first congregation to occupy the property was the First Christian Church of New York City. The church was founded in 1829 and the deed finalizing the church's purchase of these four lots was recorded in 1834 (Greenleaf 1846). The congregation constructed a church edifice that measured 46 feet by 75 feet (ibid). The combined length and width of these four historic lots was approximately 50 by 78 feet, so the church would have taken up nearly all of the land and there would therefore not have been room for an adjacent churchyard or cemetery. Burials to the south of Grand Street—one block to the south of the church property—were banned in 1823 and burial restrictions grew increasingly strict thereafter. After financial difficulties, the congregation sold the property (Greenleaf 1846). In 1841, the Norfolk Street Baptist Church purchased the existing edifice and worshipped in it until 1848, when the church burned down (Hansell 1899). The lots were at that time divided and redeveloped for residential purposes. While it is possible that the church was constructed with burial vaults, it does not appear likely. If burial vaults were present, they would most likely have been impacted by subsequent basement excavation that took place on these lots (see below).

3-6: 72 NORFOLK STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that the lot was developed with a double brick structure with a small open rear yard. The building is identified on the 1905 Sanborn map as a 4-story structure with a 4-story rear. Later maps indicate that the rear addition was removed and that the building was used as a synagogue. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation. While highly unlikely, there is also a small chance that the undisturbed portions could have been the site of burial vaults related to the church formerly located on the property.

3-7 TO 3-9: 70 NORFOLK STREET/208, 2081/2, AND 210 BROOME STREET

These three small lots were combined by the early 20th century and the 1905 Sanborn map depicts a 6-story with basement structure occupying all but a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) portion of the rear yard. These lots are therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

3-10: 206 BROOME STREET

This property was first developed and occupied between 1820 and 1825. The 1852 Perris map depicts a wood frame structure at the front of the lot, an open central yard, and a large rear structure that occupied the rear of the property at 204 Broome Street (see 3-11, below) as well. The 1857 Perris map indicates that the size of the rear building had been reduced and was limited to this lot only and connected to the front structure by a series of wood frame additions. The 1885 Robinson-Pigeon map depicts a brick front and rear structures separated by an open central courtyard. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that these buildings both stood 5 stories (with basement) and that there was a 1-story outbuilding in the center yard. The lot was vacant by 1951, as seen on the Sanborn map of that year. Maps do not indicate that the center yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the central portion of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

3-11: 204 BROOME STREET

This property was first developed and occupied between 1820 and 1825. As discussed above, the 1852 Perris map depicts a rear building on this lot that was shared with the neighboring property to the west. That map also depicts a brick front structure on the lot with wood frame rear additions and narrow rear and side yards. The 1857 version of the Perris map depicts the rear yard as vacant while the 1885 Robinson-Pidgeon map depicts the redevelopment of the lot with brick front and rear structures and an open center yard. The 1905 Sanborn map depicts the front structure as a 5-story store and dwelling and the rear building as a 4-story dwelling; neither are identified as having basements. The 1951 Sanborn map depicts the front building as 6-stories with a basement and indicates that the rear building had been demolished. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard was excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern end of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

3-12: 202 BROOME STREET

The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that this lot was developed with a 2-story with basement structure occupying all but a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) portion of the rear yard. This lot is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

3-13: 200 BROOME STREET

This property was divided into two lots, with the southern two-thirds of the property being included within Historic Lot 65 and the rear portion within Historic Lot 62. The 1852 Perris map depicts the two lots as one, developed with a wood frame building and an undeveloped rear yard. The 1857 Perris map reflects the construction of a new brick building on Lot 65 which is identified on the 1905 Sanborn map as a 5-story store and dwelling. That map also shows that a brick rear structure was developed on what would become Historic Lot 62. The rear building is identified on subsequent maps as a 4-story factory with a basement. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard that was situated between the two brick structures was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the central portion of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

3-14 AND 3-15: 196-198 BROOME STREET/63-67 SUFFOLK STREET

These two properties were divided into three historic lots by the early 20th century as the rear yards of both properties were combined into a separate lot (Historic Lot 61). The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that the southern portion of property 3-14 (Historic Lot 64) was entirely developed with a 6-story structure with a basement. Similarly, the southern portion of property 3-15 (Historic Lot 63) was occupied by a 6-story (with basement) structure and only a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) corridor was left undeveloped to provide access to the rear structures on Historic Lot 61. The 1951 Sanborn map shows that the rear lot was entirely redeveloped with a 6-story (with basement) store and factory. These lots are therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

3-16: 69 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that this lot was entirely developed with a 1- to 2-story structure with a basement. This lot is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

3-17: 71 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that this lot was entirely developed with a 3-story structure with a basement. This lot is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

3-18: 73 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that this lot, which prior to circa 1852 was known as 63 Suffolk Street, was developed with a double wood frame structure with attached outbuildings and a wood frame rear dwelling. The 1885 Robinson-Pigeon and 1891 Bromley maps indicate that the lot was developed with a large brick structure with a stone facade and an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn map identifies this building as a 5-story store and dwelling and also depicts a small 1-story structure along the property's rear lot line. By 1951, the rear yard had been developed with a 1-story structure without a basement. Maps do not indicate that the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

3-19: 75 BROOME STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that this lot, which prior to circa 1852 was known as 65 Suffolk Street, was developed with brick front and rear structures separated by an undeveloped central yard. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that the lot was redeveloped with a large, 6-story (with basement) structure with an open rear yard. By 1951, the rear yard had been developed with a 1-story structure without a basement. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

H. HISTORIC LOTS WITHIN SITE 4

Site 4 consists of modern Block 346, Lot 40 (part) and is bounded by Delancey Street to the north, Clinton Street to the east, Broome Street to the south, and Suffolk Street to the west. This lot is made up of 17 historic properties as outlined in Table 6, below. Of these, 10 have been identified as archaeologically sensitive while the others have been determined to have been disturbed by historic development and basement excavation (see Appendix C). Tax assessment records indicate that nearly all of the lots within Site 4 were first developed with structures before 1820.

Of these lots, several, though not all, were at times occupied by their owners, although all were multifamily homes. Almost all of the lots had both front and rear structures and as a result, a large number of unrelated residents likely occupied each lot at any given time. The population of each lot increased over the years and by the mid- to late-19th century, each lot was occupied by a large number of people, typical of the over-crowded Lower East Side at the time. Throughout the first half of the 19th century, the residents of this site were largely working class, with the number of unskilled workers among the residents increasing as the century continued. Residential turnover was high, with almost all of the non-owner tenants residing on the site for a period of only a few years. Finally, nearly all of the residents were Caucasian, mostly of German descent, with some of English or Irish extraction. However, in the 1850s and 1860s, the properties at 127, 129, and 131 Clinton Street (Properties 4-13, 4-14, and 4-15) were the home of several individuals of African descent or of mixed race.

A brief summary of each lot is provided below and additional data on the lots' occupants (including conveyance records, historic directory entries, census records, and tax assessment data) is included as. Appendix C.

4-1: 78 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that this lot was entirely developed with a 6-story (with basement) structure. This lot is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

4-2: 76 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that this lot, which prior to circa 1852 was known as 60 Suffolk Street, was developed with a wood frame structure and a brick rear dwelling separated by an open central yard. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that the lot was redeveloped with a large, 6-story (with basement) dwelling with an open rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-3: 74 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that this lot, which prior to circa 1852 was known as 58 Suffolk Street, was developed with a wood frame structure that was set back from the street by a large undeveloped front yard and separated from a brick rear dwelling by a small center yard. By 1885, the lot was redeveloped with a larger brick structure built at the front of the lot with an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn map identifies the new building as a 5-story (with basement) store and dwelling with an open rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-4: 72 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that this lot, which prior to circa 1852 was known as 56 Suffolk Street, was developed with a wood frame structure with an attached rear outbuilding and an open rear yard. By 1885, the lot was redeveloped with a larger brick structure built at the front of the lot with an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn map identifies the new building as a 5-story (with basement) store and dwelling with a small 1-story structure in the otherwise undeveloped open rear yard. The 1951 Sanborn map shows that the rear yard was developed with a 1-story addition without a basement. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-5: 68-70 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1922 Sanborn map indicates that this lot was developed with a 5-story (with basement) structure with a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) rear yard. This lot is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

4-6 AND 4-7: 64-66 SUFFOLK STREET AND 192-194 BROOME STREET

The 1905 Sanborn map shows that by the early 20th century, these two lots were combined and developed with a 6-story structure with a basement and narrow (less than 10 feet in width) rear and side yards. These lots are therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

4-8: 190 BROOME STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that this lot was developed with a wood frame structure with open side and central yards and an outbuilding along the rear lot line in the backyard. By 1885, the lot was redeveloped with a brick structure with an L-shaped wood frame shed or stable in the rear yard. By 1891, the lot had been redeveloped again with a larger brick structure with an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn map identifies the new building as a 5-story store and dwelling with a small 1-story structure in the otherwise undeveloped open rear yard. The 1951 Sanborn map does not depict any changes to the lot, although it notes that the building was "boarded up." Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the northern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-9: 188 BROOME STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that this lot was developed with a wood frame dwelling separated from an L-shaped wood frame rear dwelling by an undeveloped center yard. By 1885, the lot was redeveloped with a larger brick structure with an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn map identifies the new building as a 5-story store and dwelling with a small 1-story structure in the otherwise undeveloped open rear yard. The 1951 Sanborn map does not depict any changes to the lot, although it notes that the building was "boarded up." Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the northern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-10: 180-186 BROOME STREET

The 1905 Sanborn map shows that by the early 20th century, this property (which represents two historic lots and was later combined with property 4-11 as described below) was developed with a 5-story structure with a basement and narrow (less than 10 feet in width) rear and side yards. This lot is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

4-11: 135 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 Perris map indicates that this lot was developed with a wood frame structure and a brick rear dwelling separated by an open central yard. The 1857 Perris map shows that the lot had been redeveloped with a new brick structure with an open rear yard. By 1905, this property had been combined with a portion of the lot to the south (4-10) and redeveloped with a new 6-story structure with a basement and a small undeveloped rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the northern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-12: 133 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict this lot as developed with a 1-st class wood frame commercial structure with a brick rear dwelling and a small open center yard. By 1885, the front structure was redeveloped with a brick structure and a small brick structure was erected in the center yard. By 1891, the front and rear buildings were connected by new structures. Subsequent Sanborn maps indicate that three separate additions were constructed in the yard, and that the central addition was constructed with a basement. Maps do not indicate that the eastern and western portions of the central yard of the lot were ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern and western ends of the lot's central yard are determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-13: 131 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 Perris atlas depicts this lot as developed with brick front and rear dwellings and a small wood frame structure in the otherwise undeveloped rear yard. The 1857 version of Perris' map indicates that the building in the center yard had been replaced with a larger brick structure. By 1891, the lot was redeveloped with a larger brick structure with an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn map identifies this building as a 5-story (with basement) store and dwelling and also depicts a small 1-story structure along the rear lot line. This structure stood on the lot through at least 1951. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-14: 129 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 Perris map indicates that this lot was developed with a brick structure with an open rear yard. The 1857 version of the Perris map shows that several brick and wood frame additions had been added to the rear of the structure, covering a large portion of the rear yard. By 1905, this property had been redeveloped with a new 5-story structure with a basement and an undeveloped rear yard. This structure stood on the lot through at least 1951. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-15: 127 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps indicate that this lot was developed with wood frame front and rear buildings separated by an open central yard. Maps show that the rear building was later replaced with a brick structure. The 1905 Sanborn map identifies the front structure as a 3-story (with basement) store and dwelling and the rear structure as a 4-story dwelling with its own narrow rear yard. A 1-story structure was depicted in the center yard as well. The 1922 Sanborn shows that the lot was once again redeveloped with a large, 6-story store and dwelling with a basement and a small open rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

4-16 AND 4-17: 123-125 CLINTON STREET

The 1922 Sanborn map shows that these lots were combined and developed with a new 1- to 6-story structure with a basement with only a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) portion of the lot remaining undeveloped. These lots are therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

I. HISTORIC LOTS WITHIN SITE 5

Site 5 consists of modern Block 346, Lot 40 (part) and is bounded by Broome Street to the north, Clinton Street to the east, Grand Street to the south, and Suffolk Street to the west. This lot is made up of 33 historic properties as outlined in Table 7, below. Of these, 18 have been identified as archaeologically sensitive while the others have been determined to have been disturbed by historic development and basement excavation (see Appendix D). Tax assessment records indicate that nearly all of the lots within Site 5 were first developed with structures before 1820.

5-1 TO 5-3: 58 TO 62 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict each of these three small lot as developed with a wood frame dwelling with an open rear yard. These buildings were largely unchanged until the late-19th century, when a 1-story (without basement) brick addition was added to the rear of property 5-3. By 1905, the three lots had been combined and almost entirely redeveloped with a 6-story (with basement) store and dwelling. A portion of the rear yard of Property 5-3 was not developed, however and maps do not indicate that it was entirely disturbed by basement construction. Therefore, the properties identified as 5-1 and 5-2 are determined to have no archaeological sensitivity while rear former rear yard of property 5-3 is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-4: 56 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1922 Sanborn map depicts a 6-story (with basement) structure covering this lot in its entirety. This lot is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

Notes:

- * The lot numbers for these properties used on historic maps do not match those used in historic tax assessments.
- ** Properties 5-28 and 5-29 were initially two lots oriented west-east that fronted on Clinton Street but were later realigned to be north-west and front on Broome Street. For the purposes of this analysis, the original west-east alignment of the properties is used in the data below and in Appendix D.
- *** 113-115 Clinton Street may also have been used for properties at the northwest corner of Broome and Clinton Streets (see 4-10 in Table 6).

5-5: 54 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1852 Perris map depicts this lot as developed with a wood frame front and rear dwellings separated by an open center yard. The 1857 Perris map depicts the lot in the same manner, although it identifies the rear building as a 1st-class commercial building. The 1885 Robinson map indicates that the lot was redeveloped by a larger brick structure with an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn map identifies this building as a 5-story store and dwelling and also depicts two 1-story outbuildings in the rear yard, although those rear buildings were demolished by 1922. The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that the lot had been razed and was a vacant lot. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-6: 52 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1852 Perris map depicts this lot as developed with a wood frame dwelling and a 2nd-class commercial structure at the rear of the lot. The 1857 Perris atlas indicates that the rear commercial building had been replaced with a large brick rear dwelling that extended to cover a portion of the eastern half of the lot to the south (5-7). The structures were still standing in the early 20th century, although additions had been added to connect the front and rear dwellings. The 1905 Sanborn map identifies the front dwelling as a 3-story (with basement) store and dwelling with a series of 1- and 4-story (without basements) additions that connected it to the 4-story (without basement) rear dwellings, which had been expanded within the former rear half of the lot identified as 5-7. The 1951 Sanborn map indicates that the lot had been razed and was a vacant lot. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-7: 50 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1852 Perris map depicts this lot as developed with a brick structure and a 1st- and 2nd-class commercial structure in the rear with an open center yard. As described above (see 5-6), by 1857, the rear portion of this lot was incorporated into the lot to the north. The 1857 Perris map depicts the structure on the property identified as 5-7 as a 1st-class commercial building with a small undeveloped rear yard. This structure continued to occupy the lot through the beginning of the 20th century and it is identified on the 1905 Sanborn map as a 3-story (with basement) store and dwelling. The 1951 Sanborn map shows that by the mid-20th century, the lot had been razed and was vacant. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-8: 46 AND 48 SUFFOLK STREET

This property is represented by two narrow historic lots that were later combined. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that the property was entirely developed with a 3- to 6-story building (with a basement). This property is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

5-9: 44 SUFFOLK STREET

The 1852 Perris atlas depicts this lot as developed with a brick dwelling and a wood rear building separated by a central yard containing an outbuilding. The 1857 Perris atlas depicts the lot in the same manner, except it indicates that the outbuilding in the center yard had been replaced by a slightly larger brick structure. By 1905, the lot was redeveloped with a 50 story (with basement) store and dwelling with a small undeveloped rear yard. The 1951 Sanborn map shows that by the mid-20th century, the lot had been razed and was vacant with the exception of a small 1-story structure near the lot's southwest corner. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-10: 42 SUFFOLK STREET

This small property was situated in the rear portion of the three lots to the south (see 5-11, 5-12, and 5-13, below) and it is not always identified as a separate lot in historic documents. The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict a brick structure on this lot as well as an outbuilding along the lot's rear line. This structure stood on the lot through at least 1891. The 1905 Sanborn map shows that this lot was no longer an individual property and that it had been incorporated into the lots to the south. As described below, those lots were fully developed with buildings with basements with the exception of a small undeveloped rear yard associated with the structure built on properties 5-12 and 5-13 but which was historically the former rear yard of the structure on property 5-10. Therefore, the eastern portion of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-11: 390 AND 392 GRAND STREET

The 1905 Sanborn map depicts this lot as almost entirely developed with a 6-story (with basement) building with the exception of a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) area at the lot's northern end. This property is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

5-12 AND 5-13: 394-396 GRAND STREET

As described above, the 1905 Sanborn map indicates that these lots were combined and developed with a 6-story (with basement) store and dwelling. While a small rear yard was left undeveloped at the northern end of this lot, the undisturbed portion of the lots was historically associated with the former lot to the north (5-10). Therefore, these properties are not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

5-14: 398 GRAND STREET

The 1852 Perris atlas depicts this lot as developed with a brick structure—occupied by the Mechanic's Bank—with an open rear yard. The 1857 Perris atlas depicts two adjacent outbuildings that had been constructed alongside the rear of the building. By the late-19th century, the lot was redeveloped with a larger brick structure that is depicted on the 1885 Robinson-Pigeon and 1891 atlases as covering the entire lot, however neither map indicates if the structure had a basement. The 1894 Sanborn map depicts a structure on the lot with a small open rear yard, although it is not clear if it is a new structure. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that the structure was 6 stories tall and had a basement. Because maps do not clearly indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement, the northern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-15: 400 GRAND STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict this property as two lots: the southern two-thirds of the property were developed with a brick structure with a small rear yard and the rear portion of the property was developed with a 1st-class commercial structure that was accessed via a narrow runway through the front of the lot. By 1885, the lot was redeveloped with a new larger, brick structure with a small open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that this structure stood 5 stories tall and did not have a basement and a small 1-story structure was located along the rear lot line. The property remained unchanged through at least 1951 and the structure is still standing on Site 5 today. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the eastern portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-16: 402 GRAND STREET

The 1922 Sanborn map indicates that the rear yard of this property was developed with a 1-story structure with a basement. This property is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

5-17 TO 5-19: 404 TO 406 GRAND STREET AND 159 TO 161 CLINTON STREET

The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that these three properties were combined and developed with a 7-story (with basement) structure that occupied almost the entire footprint of the combined lot with the exception of a small center courtyard and a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) rear yard. This property is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

5-20: 157 CLINTON STREET

The 1905 Sanborn map depicts this lot as developed with a 3-story (with basement and attic) structure with a 3-story (with basement) rear attachment. Only a narrow corner of the rear yard measuring approximately 9 by 17 feet remained undeveloped. This property is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

5-21: 155 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict this property as developed with brick front and rear dwellings separated by an open central yard. These structures stood through the mid-20th century and the 1905 Sanborn map identifies the front structure as a 3-story (with basement) dwelling and the rear structure as a 3-story dwelling with no basement. The 1922 Sanborn map shows that a 1-story (without a basement) addition had been constructed to the rear of the front dwelling. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-22 AND 5-23: 151-153 CLINTON STREET

The 1905 Sanborn indicates that these lots were combined and developed with Clinton Hall, a 6-story (with basement) restaurant and meeting hall. The building occupied almost the entire property, with the exception of two narrow (less than 10 feet in width) side yards). These properties are therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

5-24 AND 5-25: 147-149 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict these two small lots as developed with wood frame buildings with outbuildings at the western ends of their undeveloped rear yards. These lots were combined in the late-19th century and the 1891 Bromley atlas indicates that they were redeveloped with a new larger brick structure with an open rear yard. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that the building was 5 stories (with a basement) and the rear yard is identified as a "vaulted yard." This structure stood on the site through at least 1951. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-24A: REAR 147-149 CLINTON STREET

This lot—which is located to the rear (west) of properties 5-24 and 5-25—is shown on the 1852 Perris atlas as entirely developed with a brick structure occupied by Public Schools No. 42 and 43. The 1857 Perris atlas depicts the lot as a vacant school yard associated with Primary School No. 20, which by that time had been constructed on the lots to the north (see 5-30 and 5-31, below). The lot remained vacant until the early 1890s and the 1894 Sanborn map indicates that it was developed with some small structures associated with the school to the north. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that these small structures did not have basements. The 1951 Sanborn map shows that a large portion of this lot was redeveloped with a 2-story structure that was constructed on the lot in association with a firehouse that had replaced the school to the north, however it did not have a basement. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-26: 145 CLINTON STREET

The 1922 Sanborn map depicts this lot as developed with a 3-story (with basement) structure with a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) rear yard. This property is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

5-27: 143 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict this property as developed with a brick structure with an undeveloped rear yard. This structure stood through the mid-20th century and the 1905 Sanborn map identifies it as a 3-story (with basement) with a small 3-story (without a basement) rear addition. This structure stood through at least 1951. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-28 AND 5-29: 139-141 CLINTON STREET/181-183 BROOME STREET

The two lots situated at the southwest corner of Broome and Clinton Streets were originally oriented west-east and fronted on Clinton Street. The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict these two lots as developed with wood frame structures. The southern of the two lots had an undeveloped rear yard while the rear yard of the northern lot was partially developed with a brick addition. By 1891, the lots were reoriented so that they fronted on Broome Street. The 1891 Bromley atlas depicts both lots as developed with brick structures with small open rear yards. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that these structures were 5 stories tall and did not have basements. Both structures stood through 1951. Because these structures did not have basements, it is possible that shaft features associated with the earlier occupation of these two lots were not disturbed during the lots' redevelopment. Therefore, the former rear yard areas of these lots are determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-30 AND 5-31: 185-187 BROOME STREET

Between the mid-1850s and the mid-1930s, these lots were combined and occupied by Primary School No. 20, which was 3 stories tall without a basement. In 1937, these lots were redeveloped with a 2-story (with basement) structure that housed Engine No. 17/Hook and Ladder No. 18 of the New York City Fire Department, which is still present on the project site. The building occupied almost the entire lot with the exception of a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) side yard along the lot's eastern edge. These properties are therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

5-32: 189 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict this property as developed with a wood frame structure with an outbuilding along the rear of an otherwise undeveloped rear yard. This structure stood through at least 1891. The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that the lot was razed and used as a yard for the adjacent school property. The 1951 Sanborn reflects the construction of a 2-story (without basement) wing of the adjacent Fire house on this lot with undeveloped side and rear yards. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

5-33: 191 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict this property as developed with a wood frame structure with an undeveloped rear yard. By 1885, the lot was redeveloped with a larger brick structure with an undeveloped rear yard. Subsequent Sanborn maps indicate that this building was 5 stories tall with a basement and stood until at least 1951. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

J. HISTORIC LOTS WITHIN SITE 6

Site 6 consists of modern Block 347, Lot 71, which is bounded by Delancey Street to the north, Clinton Street to the west, Broome Street to the south, and Attorney Street to the east. This lot is made up of 13 historic properties as outlined in Table 8, below. Of these, 4 have been identified as archaeologically sensitive while the others have been determined to have been disturbed by historic development and basement excavation (see Appendix E). Tax assessment records indicate that many of the lots within Site 6 were first developed with structures before 1820 and the rest were first developed between 1820 and 1825.

Table 8 Summary of Historic Properties Included within Site 3 (Modern Block 347, Lot 71)

Notes: *These lots were originally oriented-north south and fronted on Broome Street until the late-19th century, when they were realigned and replaced with three west-east oriented lots that fronted on Attorney Street.

6-1: 124 CLINTON STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris maps depict a wood frame structure at the front of this lot, an undeveloped center yard, and an outbuilding adjacent to a 1-st class wood frame commercial structure at the rear of the lot. The rear structure appears to have been accessed via a narrow alley that crossed through the center of the block from Delancey Street to the north and which was lined on both sides with similar commercial structures to the rear of dwellings lining Clinton and Attorney Streets. These structures stood through the early 20th century and the 1905 Sanborn map depicts the dwelling as a 2-story (with basement and attic) store and dwelling and the rear structure as a 2-story stable. Three small, 1-story structures are depicted in the center yard between the front and rear structures. The 1922 Sanborn map reflects the combination of this lot with several lots to the north which were then developed with a new 6-story (with basement) structure that served as the New York City Police Department's 15th Precinct Station. However, this structure did not occupy the entire lot and a large portion of the center yard at 124 Clinton Street remained undeveloped. Therefore, the central portion of this lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

6-2, 6-3, AND 6-10 THROUGH 6-13: 126-128 CLINTON STREET AND 51-57 ATTORNEY STREET

The 1951 Sanborn map shows that these six adjacent lots were combined and developed with a large movie theatre that was constructed in 1925. The theatre was 1 to 3 stories with a basement and covered the entire footprint of these six historic lots as well as several others to the north. These properties are therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

6-4 AND 6-5: 176-178 BROOME STREET

The 1905 Sanborn map indicates that these lots were combined and developed with a 1- to 6-story structure (with basement) with a narrow (less than 10 feet in width) undeveloped side yard. These properties are therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

6-6: 174 BROOME STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict this lot as developed with a wood frame structure with an undeveloped rear yard. This structure stood through the late-19th century but the 1905 Sanborn map indicates that this lot was combined with the lot to the east (see 6-7) and developed with a 6-story (with basement) store and dwelling with a small undeveloped rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

6-7: 172 BROOME STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict this lot as developed with a wood frame structure with an outbuilding along the rear line of an otherwise undeveloped rear yard. This structure stood through the late-19th century but the 1905 Sanborn map indicates that this lot was combined with the lot to the east (see 6-8) and developed with a 6-story (with basement) store and dwelling with a small undeveloped rear yard. Maps do not indicate that the rear yard of the lot was ever excavated for the construction of a basement. Therefore, the western portion of the lot is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

6-8: 170 BROOME STREET

The 1852 and 1857 Perris atlases depict this lot as developed with a wood frame structure with an outbuilding along the rear line of an otherwise undeveloped rear yard. This structure stood through the early 1890s. The 1905 Sanborn map reflects the realignment of the lots in the southeast corner of this historic block and the five historic lots fronting Broome Street to the east of and including the property at 170 Broome Street were converted into three lots oriented east-west and fronting on Attorney Street. The rear portions of these three lots covered the historic lot formerly at 170 Broome Street. While the three newly created lots were each developed with a 5-story building with a basement, the northern two contained undeveloped rear yards. Therefore, the rear yard of the property historically at 170 Broome Street does not appear to have ever been excavated for the construction of a basement. For this reason, the northern portion of this historic property is determined to be sensitive for archaeological resources such as privies, cisterns, and wells associated with the lot's early- to mid-19th century occupation.

&lt;sup>1</sup> As a result of concurrent street renumbering, the property to the west of this lot (6-6) is sometimes depicted as 170 Broome Street on historic maps.

6-9: 168 BROOME STREET

This property was also included within the lot realignment described above, however this property was entirely covered by structures with basements. This property is therefore not considered to be archaeologically sensitive.

A. CONCLUSIONS

As part of the background research for this Phase 1A Archaeological Documentary Study, various primary and secondary resources were analyzed, including historic and current utility maps and construction plans and historic maps and atlases, historic photographs, newspaper articles, local histories, census records, and historic directories. The information provided by these sources was analyzed to reach the following conclusions.

PRECONTACT SENSITIVITY ASSESSMENT

The precontact sensitivity of project sites in the New York City is generally evaluated by a site's proximity to high ground (but not exceeding 12 to 15 percent slopes), fresh water courses, well-drained soils, and previously identified precontact archaeological sites (NYAC 2005). The varied resources provided by both the East River and the wetlands that bordered it would have been essential to Native American life and it is highly likely that such resources were frequently exploited. The presence of a Native American trail leading to the East River situated to the south of the project site confirms this. The majority of the project site would not likely have been the location of a habitation site, as high ground such as Jones' Hill to the east, where the Native American village of Nechtanc was located, would have been favored. However, it is possible that the location surrounding the project site was used for the gathering and processing of resources, which is supported by the presence of a Native American trail through the area in the vicinity of modern East Broadway.

Despite the likelihood that Native Americans used the project site as a temporary hunting or fishing location, Native American archaeological sites tend to be shallowly buried, often within 4 to 5 feet of the precontact ground surface. During the historic period, the landscape of the project area was greatly transformed as a result of farming, grading, the demolition of hills, the cutting of streets, and the construction of buildings. Subsequent basement excavations and utility installations would have generated additional disturbance to the ground surface, the elevation of which has changed little since the mid-19th century according to historic maps (see Table 2). Therefore, it appears that the original ground surface in this area would have been sufficiently altered so as to have disturbed any precontact archaeological resources which could have been located there at one time. Therefore, the project site is determined to have no sensitivity for precontact archaeological resources.

HISTORIC SENSITIVITY ASSESSMENT

As described in greater detail, nearly all of the almost 100 historic properties included within the project site were disturbed to some extent as a result of excavation associated with the construction of buildings with basements. All lots that were fully developed or where all but a portion of the lot measuring less than 10 feet in width was developed with structures with basements are considered to be disturbed and are therefore not sensitive for archaeological resources. Historic lots that were not fully disturbed by basement excavation are determined to have moderate to high sensitivity for archaeological resources associated with the 19th century residential occupation of those lots. These archaeological resources are expected to include domestic shaft features such as privies, cisterns, and wells in the historic lots' rear yards. There is also a very low probability that burial vaults associated with a church formerly located on Site 3 may be present within the property identified in this report as 3-6.

The historic properties that have been identified as archaeologically sensitive include the following historic lots:

- 2-1: 85 Norfolk Street
- 2-2: 83 Norfolk Street

- 6-7: 172 Broome Street
- 6-8: 170 Broome Street

The areas of archaeological sensitivity are depicted on Figure 8.

B. RECOMMENDATIONS

As discussed above, potential archaeological resources including shaft features and artifact deposits within them could be impacted by the proposed redevelopment of the project sites. Further study in the form of a Phase 1B archaeological investigation is recommended for those areas identified as archaeologically sensitive as described above and depicted in Figure 8.

These records are transcribed from the original hand-written ledgers on microfilm and may therefore contain inaccuracies depending on the clarity and legibility of the original records. Earlier records do not include street numbers or include numbers that do not appear to correspond to established street numbers. Clinton and Grand Streets were renumbered circa 1847 and Suffolk Street was renumbered circa 1852.
